To launch the exhibition, the steering committee for the Northern Ontario School of Architecture is hosting a reception, June 22, 2009 from 5 to 7 pm at the Silverman Building (67 Elm Street). This event will bring together various community leaders, local architects; and both students and faculty from the University of Waterloo School of Architecture who will give brief presentations of their recent work in addition to that which will be on display.

Architecture Show & Tell is an exhibition of work completed by students and faculty from the University of Waterloo School of Architecture, and a selection of architectural firms from Northern Ontario. The work on display will take many forms. From two-dimensional drawings, sketches, and books; to three-dimensional models, furniture and installations. Displays will be interactive and intriguing, and will demonstrate the spectrum of creativity that stems from an architectural education as well as the profession.

This show is open and free to the public.

The exhibition is funded by the Greater Sudbury Development Corporation (GSDC); the Northern Ontario Heritage Fund (NOHFC); FedNor; the Northern Ontario Society of Architects (NOSA); the University of Waterloo School of Architecture (UWSA); and the Northern Ontario School of Architecture (NOSOA).
